Chronicle 1:
Two Sacred Swords

Zhou Dynasty,
the 17th year of Moosunge's reign.
Five years since Moosunge began a campaign to revive the wealth and might
of his domain,
emerging from the shadows of the powerful neighbors.

Once demoting the Zhou as significant, the neighboring powers began to grow wary when Moosunge attacked the kingdom of (Gochun and its capitol.

Overlaid by Moosunge's attack as one of its tributary states, the powerful kingdom of Lung invaded Zhou.
So began the era of warring states.

CHRONICLES OF THE CURSED SWORD

TOKYOPOP®

In an era of warring states, warlords become kings, dynasties crumble, and heroes can rise from the most unlikely places. Rey Yan and his sister Syao Lin are orphans, raised by a wise master in ways of magic and combat. While war escalated around them, they managed to stay free of its politics and allegiances—that is until they met Jaryoon, King of Hahyun. This pacifist king is the target of assassins both mortal and inhuman, and when demons attack, he'll need the power of Rey and his PaSa sword in order to stay alive. The last thing Rey wants to do is save the life of a politician, but the chance to slay demons to feed his cursed sword is just too great to pass up. Can these strangers with nothing in common become allies in order to stop a pact between demons and evil men that threatens their entire country?
